DeVere return with their fourth single 'Surrender' via all streaming services on 17th May 2024.

DeVere's 'Surrender' is a full-throttle contemporary metal anthem, embodying the energetic, aggressive essence of heavy metal. Self-produced and mixed by the band's platinum-selling, Brit-nominated bassist, it blazes with relentless riffs, haunting church bells, and a driving rhythm, managing to pack a powerful onslaught on the senses into its two-and-a-half-minute runtime. Lead vocalist Sammy Cassidy's raw delivery adds intensity, declaring it a manifesto of self-reliance and urging listeners to carve their own path, stating, 'It's a song about surrendering to the fact nobody is coming to save you. Nobody is going to lift you out of your mediocre life. It's a shout out to God saying, "Fuck it, I'll do it myself."

Having sold out multiple headline shows in London and rocked thousands at Download Festival, hard rock quartet DeVere have swiftly garnered a devoted following, generating a buzz that's impossible to ignore. Produced by the band's Brit-nominated bassist, Will Vaughan, whose credits include Dorian Electra, Marshmello, and Oliver Tree, DeVere delivers hard rock elegance that's unmistakably their own. Their debut offerings, 'Again', 'Like Lightning', and 'Dead Before I Die', already showcase their raw talent and energy. "London's loudest band have arrived," exclaims MetalTalk, solidifying DeVere as the unmissable act of today. "There is a sense it is only a matter of time before DeVere rises to unstoppable heights. We are living in their world now, and there ain't nothing we can do about it."

"Absolutely awesome!" raves Total Rock, echoing the sentiment of fans and critics alike. Metal Junkbox adds, "Stop everything! Stop everything and come check out this band!!!"

Roadie Music captures the essence of DeVere's sound, stating, "The English band DeVere redefines the limits of hard rock. This emerging underground quartet presents a unique vision of musical elegance, triggering a sound storm that promises to leave its mark on the scene. Get ready to be surrounded by the electricity of 'Like Lightning', a true masterpiece of contemporary hard rock."

'Surrender' is released on all streaming platforms on 17th May 2024
